(Special To The News)

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., May 29.—Last week we had quite an unusual murder out here (and its getting very hard to put on anything unusual in the way of a murder), a well known politician was killed and at first they could find no reason. Then it was discovered that he was on the verge of financing a preacher in establishing a radio broadcasting station. So now the murderer will surrender and show that his deed was to save the public and he will be acquitted with honors and his services will be in demand everywhere. The regret is that this hero didn't start his life's work earlier.

Big Beaver Township Farmers Hard Hit By Latest Theft Of Fowl Worth $250

Modern Barn Marauders Employ Motor Car To Make Trips In Lawrence County

Wary chicken thieves who employ fast cars to leave the scenes of their crimes today caused Lawrence county authorities to warn farmers to be on the lookout for the thieves, following the latest theft of 76 fowls worth $250 from two Big Beaver township farmers.

The newest thieves reported to the County Detective H. Martin Lee took place Wednesday night and followed on the heels of similar depredations against farmers during the past several weeks when over $500 in thefts are credited to the chicken thieves operating in the county.

Self-Defense Is Probable Plea In Killing On Coast

Preliminary Hearing For David H. Clark Brings Out Defense Plea

BULLET MISSING, MAY TELL TALE

Believe Clark Shot Crawford And That Spencer Was In Line Of Fire

(International News Service)

LOS ANGELES, May 29.—Prospects of a self-defense plea were seen in the questions asked by lawyers in the preliminary hearing of David H. Clark, former prosecutor, charged with the murders of Charles Crawford and Herbert Spencer, which was continued today.

Clark's lawyers asked George Crawford, brother and bodyguard of the slain political boss, about a ventilator in the room where the politician and the magazine editor were slain. He testified that the lattice work on the ventilator was large enough for a bullet to pass through it without touching.

From this it was deduced that the defense might be that Crawford fired first at Clark, the bullet missing him and passing through the grating of the open ventilator never to be found. Crawford was shot and Spencer was in the line of fire, they intimated.

Pinchot Almost Certain To Call Special Session

Legislators Leave For Homes As Unproductive 129th Session Ends

COMPROMISE ENDS LENGTHY BATTLE

No Really Important Bills Passed—Pinchot May Veto Reapportionment

By WILLIAM B. BROWN
International News Service Staff Correspondent

HARRISBURG, May 29.—Most protected and unproductive of recent years, the 129th session of the general assembly today was history, and already speculation has begun as to when members of the legislature will return here for the special session Gov. Pinchot is certain to call.

It was a legislature more notable for bills it failed to pass rather than legislation enacted that adourned sine die at 4:31 p. m., four and a half hours after the time agreed on for quitting work. Final adjournment was hung up by disagreement over a congressional reapportionment measure which was approved as a compromise after a battle which lasted right up to the last minute.

Under the compromise measure, the state's congressional districts are reduced from 36 to 34, but even with it passed there is no certainty that congressmen and delegates to national conventions may not be elected at large. The governor, it is understood, opposes the compromise bill which went past both houses and may not sign it, which would throw election of congressmen into a free-for-all race.

State Summons Outside Help In Swamp Fight

HARRISBURG, May 29.—Secretary of Highways Sam Lewis today recommended to Governor Gifford Pinchot names of three consulting engineers to determine proper methods in proceeding on construction of U. ## Trio Of Consulting Engineers Named To Solve Problem On Perry Highway

EXPERT ADVICE SOUGHT BY LEWIS

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, May 29.—Secretary of Highways Sam Lewis today recommended to Governor Gifford Pinchot names of three consulting engineers to determine proper methods in proceeding on construction of U. S. route No. 19 between Shaeleville and Trace school in Crawford county, where a swamp is blocking the way.

Those recommended for appointment are Grover C. Dillman, Michigan commissioner of highways; C. A. Burns, division construction engineer, northern division of New Jersey, and Frank R. Layng, chief maintenance engineer of the Bessemer & Lake Erie Railroad company. If appointed they will serve without pay except for necessary expenses.

All have had experience in building roads and railroads in marshy country.

Attempts to fill the swamp already has raised construction costs on the project $143,000. The relocation of the highway project was awarded a year ago to Hanlon & Oakes, St. Paul contractors, at $482,565. When the contractor attempted to place the road bed, fill sank into the swamp faster than it could be hauled. The additional fill was authorized but the swamp continued to win the battle.

In announcing the proposal to seek expert advice on the project Secretary Lewis said that relocation of the road through the swamp, was in his opinion "ill advised from the beginning and the continuance of the project is highly questionable."

LAWRENCE, BEAVER, BUTLER DISTRICT REMAINS INTACT IN REAPPORTIONMENT BILL

(From News Bureau)

(State Capital)

HARRISBURG, Pa., May 29.—Crititized by its friends and abused by its enemies, the congressional reapportionment bill was passed by the Pennsylvania general assembly in the closing minutes of the session and provided a stormy finale for a session that was marked with oratorical gunnery.

At midnight Wednesday there seemed to be no chance of any passage of a bill. The conference committee appointed to iron out the differences between the senate and house reported they were in a hopeless deadlock. At noon Thursday there seemed a ray of light and then suddenly an agreement was reached.

One of the few districts that was left in the shape it was, is the 26th district comprising Lawrence, Beaver and Butler counties. For a time it looked as though Mercer county would be added to the 26th but such a proposal brought forth loud howls from the legislative members from these counties. Apparently the howls accomplished the purpose intended for Mercer county was dropped from the 26th.

Italian Plotter Is Put To Death

(International News Service)

ROME, May 29.—Condemned by his own confession, Michele Schirru, naturalized American citizen, was executed today at Brasci fortress for plotting against the life of Premier Mussolini.

Schirru, the first American ever to face a special military tribunal in Italy, was convicted and sentenced yesterday after a speedy trial.

The Italian-born anarchist found an ignominious death. He was bound to a chair, his back to the firing squad that silently fled into the yard. The squad had been ordered to fire at the base of his spine, the usual manner of execution in such cases. The execution took place at 5:05 o'clock this morning.

CONFESSED PLAN TO KILL PREMIER

Schirru told the court that he had contemplated assassinating the premier, but later abandoned the plan. When he was captured, police discovered two bombs he admitted were to have been used. Schirru wound three police officers before he was subdued, and later attempted suicide.

He admitted in court that he had wounded the police, but said he did not mean to kill them. Throughout the trial he maintained a calm and smiling countenance.

The tribunal deliberated for only 50 minutes before declaring Schirru guilty. The judge sentenced him to be executed despite an eloquent plea by Schirru's attorney that clemency be granted. When the verdict was announced, the large crowd in the court room cheered lustily and sang the Fascist hymn.

Work Feverishly To Rescue Miners Trapped By Rocks

(International News Service)

WILKES-BARRE, Pa., May 29.—Hampered by quicksand and danger of recurring slides, rescue workers today pressed excavations at the Delaware-mine of the Hudson Coal company, near here, in an effort to reach two men, trapped in a rock fall yesterday afternoon.

The two, who are feared to be dead, are Thomas Rossi, 43, and Amani Telsio, 38. Both were at work in the mine when a fall of rock and coal buried them under tons of debris. Hastily gathered rescue squads, working through the night, were unable to reach the men and finally shifted efforts from the top of the slide to the bottom.

Last word from the two imprisoned miners was heard last night when repeated attempts to communicate with them failed, fear grew that they had died.

Pause a while on the morrow and say a prayer for the men, who once a year on Memorial Day are with us in spirit again. Forget for a moment your pleasure, and pause as you pass on your way, to remember the lads, who might have been here, to enjoy life with others today. Remember the men in the service, who cheerfully laid down their all, remember those lads who were playmates, who left at the president's call. For once make the day a memorial for those who have passed on their way, that you and I might enjoy freedom, it's eighty six today.

Those who have occasion to travel over the road to New Castle Junction and West Pittsburgh, are anxious to know what is going to be done about paving the road as promised last year. Chambers' Address

A stirring Memorial Day message by Judge James A. Chambers was the key feature to a patriotic assembly given this morning for the senior high school student body. The address was delivered at the close of a program by the students.

Donald F. Copson, faculty member presided. Devotionals were conducted by William Margraff and a presentation of the colors and a flag salute was carried out by Boy Scouts under the direction of Ralph Weide.

Seth Morrow of the senior class recited Lincoln's famous "Gettysburg address" while Edith Zeigler of the junior class delivered "In Flanders Field" by Lieut. Col. John McCrea. Mrs. H. H. Rosenthal gave Rudyard Kipling's "Recessional."

Special band numbers were given as a feature to the assembly. Director J. F. Replogle was in charge.

After Judge Chambers' address, the students rose, and facing the east, stood in silent tribute to the veterans who have passed beyond. The "Star Spangled Banner" was sung and taps and echoes sounded as the program closed.

You're the JUDGE

A rich man contemplating the building of a new home decided on a great deal of wrought iron work to give it a certain effect which he wanted it to have. He arranged, therefore, with a manufacturer of wrought iron to furnish a number of pieces not of a common sort carried in stock, but to be made according to a special design for that particular building.

A while later, but before any of the wrought iron had yet been manufactured, the wealthy man changed his mind concerning the entire business and so notified the manufacturer of the wrought iron not to go ahead with the order.

When the manufacturer protested the cancellation, the rich man reported that the arrangement was not contract anyway since it was not in writing and, therefore, the manufacturer had no complaint.

Nevertheless the manufacturer sued.

The presidential party's departure is scheduled on a special train leaving Washington about two p. m. E. S. T. immediately on arrival in the Pennsylvania metropolis, they will go to the Bellevue-Stratford hotel, later to the Union League club dinner.

Important Address.

Saturday morning, the president will be escorted to Valley Forge by motor, where he will speak at 9:30. Eastern Standard Time, over a joint National hook-up. Mr. Hoover has devoted much time to his address, and it is expected to be one of the most important of his administration.

Originally, plans had been made to have the party return by auto but at the last minute, it was decided the heavy Memorial Day traffic might be too much for such a cavalcade, and the homeward journey will be made by train.

Accompanying Mr. and Mrs. Hoover will be secretaries to the president, Lawrence Richey and Theodore Joslin; Captain Russell Train, the naval aide; Col. Campbell Hodges, the military aide, and Col. Joe T. Boone, the White House physician.

Welcome Is Planned.

PHILADELPHIA, May 29.—Last minute preparations were completed here today for the city's welcome to President and Mrs. Hoover who are scheduled to arrive here late this afternoon in preparation for the Memorial Day observance at Valley Forge, where the chief executive will speak.

Members of the president's secret service staff and local police officials completed their plans for the escort of motorcycle police who will guide the executive party from the Pennsylvania railroad station to the Bellevue-Stratford hotel. Traffic will come to a halt downtown as the presidential party moves to the hotel.

Pinchot Attends.

Governor Gifford Pinchot, Mayor Harry A. Mackey, and a host of political and civic leaders comprise the group of about 150 who will be present at the Union League dinner. Almost 2,000 people will attend the reception following. Officials of the Union League said.

George Stutz, Patterson, president of the Union League, will present the portrait on behalf of the league to the president in the small Lincoln Hall of the Association's quarters. The chief executive will accept with a brief speech.

LAWRENCE, BEAVER, BUTLER DISTRICT REMAINS INTACT

Schuylkill and Northumberland counties are joined into one district under the new apportionment and this drew the most heated address from one of the Schuylkill members, C. A. Staudenmeier, that has marked the session. Luzerne also complained because they were not taken better care of, while Cambria, Indiana, Armstrong and Jefferson counties are up in arms because they have been joined together.

Bucks and Lehigh counties are joined, while Delaware, Montgomery and Berks counties are made separate congressional districts. Mercer is now with Clarion, Elk, Forest Venango and Warren counties while Erie and Crawford remain together.

Probably Be Signed.

Governor Pinchot will probably sign the bill. In the closing minutes of the session he was asked to aid in untangling the snarl and agreed to drop the demand that one strip of Luzerne county be taken out to be added to another congressional district.

One of the surprises is that Bucks county, the home of former Senator Joseph R. Grundy, is joined with Lehigh county, a county that has quite often gone Democratic.

If Governor Pinchot refuses to sign the bill, it means that Pennsylvania's 34 congressmen and 72 national delegates will have to be elected at-large in 1932. This possibility was one that aided in settling the matter, but the settlement was one that left many bitter feelings.

Your audience will think that it is in the left hand and will be astonished to see it empty. You do not place the thimble in the left hand at all, but, when in the act of laying the first finger of the right hand on the left (1) you quickly bend the finger, leaving the thimble secreted between the ball of your thumb and the root of the first finger (2), only placing the bare finger in the left. ## STAR LORE WHY VERY SMALL WORLDS POSSESS NO ATMOSPHERE

By Arthur DeV. Carpenter.

If the moon had been more massive it would doubtless have retained an atmosphere just as the earth has. But the atoms in atmospheres are very restless, dashing about and colliding with each other. When gas is confined in a bottle for instance, it remains intact. When released it scatters. Gravitation is the force holding atmospheres down to their planets, but the sphere must be massive enough to possess sufficient gravity to hold restless atoms of the gaseous atmosphere, or the atoms will dash away into outer space and be lost. Doubtless the earth captured much of the moon's atmosphere.

of the gondola and with it slake our parched lips."

As soon as they left the gondola after descending on the Gurglermer glacier Professor Piccard and Kipfer rubbed the skin of an orange on the ice and pressed it to their lips.

"It was the most glorious drink I ever tasted," the scientist said with a smile.

Professor Piccard said he discovered what appeared to be definite radio activity from the stars, which he considered the most important result of the expedition.

Radiation Variations. "One of our most thoroughly checked observations, repeated several times over, showed that there are varying amounts of radiation from the heavenly bodies, which by our calculations proves that the stars are radioactive," the scientist declared.

"This is extremely important. 'We have proved that the atmosphere is navigable and that by modern technical methods man is able to master the pressure and cold of the upper regions. I shall not be disappointed, but rather highly gratified and interested if someone else should attempt a scientific flight which would carry him higher than 16,000 meters.'"

Stratosphere Flights

Ober-Gurgl, Austrian Tyrol, May 29.—Flights from Europe to America through the stratosphere "within a few hours" were envisioned for the near future today by Professor Auguste Piccard, Swiss scientist who penetrated that hitherto uncharted region in a free balloon. "Stratosphere flights across the Atlantic are likely in the near future," Professor Piccard said.

"Cruising speed in the stratosphere, owing to the absence of resistance, would easily be 400 miles an hour, while engines can be throttled down to 1,000 revolutions a minute.

"Cabins, however, must be made air-proof and oxygen supplied by artificial means."

PINCHOT ALMOST CERTAIN TO CALL SPECIAL SESSION

that no really important legislation was enacted in the 129th session.

Starting with a battle over election of a presidential pro tem, in which administration forces were beaten when Sen. A. F. Dix, Jr., was chosen, the session dragged from the opening day and it was not until mid-March that the first bill passed both houses. Delay incident to the more or less fruitless Public Utility investigations of House and Senate stultified both houses.

The administration program was pretty ruthlessly handled. Public Utility reform, Cardinal plank of the governor's platform, was kicked onto the scrap heap in the closing days; the proposed election code supported by the administration was beaten; legislation to abolish the Coal and Iron police system was knocked on the head without ceremony; the bills to abolish the Public Service Commission and create a fair rate board died in the Senate without a chance for approval; Stream Pollution measures and unemployment insurance bills went into oblivion.

Road Bill Passed

Virtually the only administration legislation enacted was the 20,000-mile rural road program, the Harris Old Age Pension constitutional amendment, which must pass the 1933 legislature again, and two bills designed to correct abuses connected with issuance of injunctions in labor disputes. And to finance the rural road program, the administration was forced to abandon pledges for a reduction in automobile and drivers' license fees.

And of general outstanding legislation there was none, unless such as changing method of gas tax collection from retailers to wholesalers, increase of appropriations and minor amendments to election laws can be so considered.

Two hours after the assembly put the Capital, Gov. Pinchot issued a statement blaming failure to enact remedial utility legislation on Republican State organization leaders. The "machinery of the Republican State organization," said he, "has been taken over and is owned and operated by the utilities."

Martin-Atterbury Scored

He centered his attack on State Chairman and State Treasurer Edward Martin and Gen. W. W. Atterbury, president of the Pennsylvania Railroad. He charged Martin with lobbying for utility measures and Atterbury with tyrannical control of the state Republican machinery.

"What I would like to know," the governor said, "is whether Republicans of Pennsylvania will stand for having their state party machinery used against them and their orders."

All in all, the 129th session showed a bitter partisan struggle, confined to Public Utilities and a few connected issues, over which the battle hamstrung the assembly so far as passage of notable legislation was concerned.

worth $200, and William Buchanan, also a farmer of the same township lost 26 chickens of mixed variety.

The ruthlessness of the barn visitors was shown by discovery of the fowl heads on the floor of the Buchanan barn. The thieves in this case evidently find time to break in the coop and leisurely commenced to kill the chickens.

Jenkins discovered tracks of tires about his barn. The thief or thieves evidently spent little time there but packed the fowl into the automobile or truck and hurried from the scene.

Believe Thieves From Beaver Co.

The latest two thefts are attributed by County Detective Lee to robbers from Beaver county. He believes the person or persons responsible for the Big Beaver robberies had nothing to do with other recent chicken thefts in Mahoning, Neshannock, Washington and Pulaski townships, where many farmers have been victimized to the extent of over $500.

For weeks County Detective Lee and his assistant B. J. Rocks, now ill, have sought the elusive robbers who made chicken raids outside Big Beaver township. In an endeavor to trap them the county detective and his assistant, B. J. Rocks, have stayed out through the night and returned to the city at daybreak.

Farmers are warned to be careful of strangers and to report to the county detectives office any suspicious characters in their districts.

MOTHER-DAUGHTER BANQUET ENJOYED

Among the social events of the week one that was full of enjoyment to the 65 present was that of the mothers and daughters of the Bethany Lutheran church, when they gathered in the dining room of the church for the annual banquet.

Spring flowers were effectively used in the table decorations and Mrs. Ruth Garbet led the pep singing, which added to the festivity of the occasion. The invocation was unique in that the assemblage all joined in a chant appropriate for this time.

Mrs. W. E. McMillen was a most charming toastmistress and introduced the members on the program in a clever manner. Mrs. Leonard Cramer and Mrs. Edna Kirkwood pleased with a vocal duet and the toast to mothers was given by Virginia Woods; the response to the daughters was most fitting and was given by Mrs. Oscar Woods.

Selections by the junior choir added much to the program and the solo of Mrs. Wilson and reading given by Mrs. Ruth Garbet were enthusiastically received. Betty and Doris McMillen added their part with a duet; Mrs. Edna Kirkwood gave a reading and a piano number by Evelyn McMillen closed the program.

MEMORIAL DAY MEMORIES

MEMORIAL Day! And oh! the flood of memories.

Memories of the early observances, when the boys who had saved the Union swept in long processions to the cities of the dead, to pay honors to the comrades who had gone on before.

Memories of the parades of bygone years—the ever shortening lines of marchers, the ever lengthening lines of mounds marking the resting places of those who had entered upon the last bivouac.

Memories of the Spanish War—of the Maine, of Dewey at Manila, of the rush to battle in Cuba and in the far-away Philippines. And later, the homecoming of the dead to sleep beside or near the heroes of the earlier conflict.

Memories of the World War—of the boys who went cheering and singing through the streets on their way to the training camps, keeping step to the heart-quicken "Over There."

Memories of the long, heart-racking suspense and the fears after the boys had disembarked in France, and had gone forward to the battle line.

Memories of the thrills that swept over the land as the cables and wires spread the news of the glorious deeds of our boys on the crimsoned battlefields.

Memories of the heartbreaks as the farewells telegrams brought tidings of the death of the neighbor's boy—or of the boy who was nearer and dearer.

Thus it is that as the heroes of the old wars pass away the heroes of the new battles fill the vacant places, and pay homage to the glorious dead who had served their country in its times of peril. And even when lasting peace comes to the world there will be men and women, and children in every community, large and small, to perpetuate observance of Memorial Day in paying tribute to the nation's dead.

MEMORIES OF CONGRESS

President Hoover disposed of the question of a special session of congress without formalities and with little mincing of words. He is opposed to it, considers it devoid of rhyme and reason and most certainly does not want congress "on his hands" any sooner than the law compels.

Nor is the chief executive alone of this opinion. Congress, excepting a handful of radicals, does not want a special session, and the public in general is emphatically opposed to it. The "ayes" are confined to a few sidish politicians looking for a forum and a few organized minorities who cannot wait until December to get their hands into the public coffers again.

The last session of congress was not an especially good advertisement for a special session.

Congress had its chance to save the country, economically, and failed. It showed rather conclusively that business prosperity will not be restored by the nostrums of politicians. Nor are the extra-session advocates sincere in their protestations of noble, patriotic and humanitarian purposes. They are itching for another raid on the national treasury and another attack on the administration. Another national election is uncomfortably near.

MONEY MANAGEMENT

A course given in the public schools of Brookline, Mass., has as a cardinal principle that money management and life management go hand in hand. "Work determines earnings," defines this system, and earnings determine first, savings for old age and emergencies; second, definite sharing with the less fortunate, and third, living standards, progress in business and enjoyment of the finer things of life.

This instruction is an answer to the common complaint that the public schools and colleges train the student to meet all economic problems except those they encounter immediately after graduation when they set forth to establish themselves in life.

Anybody, no matter how illiterate and improvident can dispose of earnings, but few know how to dispose of them intelligently and providently. It's a wise man who knows the limits of his own income.

Experience proves that public health has been greatly improved by training school children in the elementary principles of hygiene. The schools have also prepared girls for wifehood and motherhood and boys for useful trades by presenting to them the fundamentals of these arts. Would not a little instruction in the simple rules of money management accomplish as much?

Money mismanagement, a nearly universal fault of man, is largely responsible for the sorry plight of the millions of unemployed and their families.

GROWING TALLER

Myth-mutilators may be constructive by their very destructiveness. Not all of them are mischief-makers and wanton iconoclasts, smashing idols, ideals and sacred superstitions out of pure devilishness.

Among the benevolent sort is the anthropologist who refutes the popular theory that immigration and assimilation of Latin brunets is making a race of pygmies of the American people, originally a nation of Nordic giants.

This scientist takes the measurements of three generations of men and women and proves that the people of the United States are growing taller and broader from generation to generation. He finds the present generation one of the tallest groups in the world.

The average male American of this generation is one inch taller than the average 32 years ago, and two inches taller than the average 64 years ago. The modern daughter is one and one-tenth inches taller and seven pounds heavier than her mother.

These scientific deductions will not interest those who see no advantages to a peaceful people in large stature, but they will serve to set at rest the fears of the giant-idolators.

Say this for the miniature golf course: It may not improve the putting stroke, but it's as good a place as any to learn to count.

It isn't as much a question of King Carol becoming reconciled with his wife as of Queen Helen becoming reconciled to her husband.

Probably an endurance flier also has his bad moments when he lands and someone says: "Oh, hello there, have you been away somewhere?"

This is the season of the year when we don't care to get into any controversy with an association of merchant tailors over whether the well-dressed man has to have six overcoats.

"Getting Away From the Children"
It's Good for Parents
And Good for Children, Too

By MARSHALL MASLIN

One might as well admit it. Because it's true, and when something is true it acts like a tonic when you admit it.

I mean about parents and their children and how parents get tired of their youngsters and their little boys and girls also get unpeppably bored with their fathers and mothers.

We have heard a great deal these last few years—about the Rights of Children—about feeding them properly and being sure that they have the right environment, about methods of teaching and methods of getting them ready for adult life. And, of course, all children have these rights. If you bring a child into this world you owe him an enormous debt; you owe him Happiness, you owe him Character, you owe him everything you have and as much more as you can get for him. You surely do.

But lately a few bold parents have been raising their voices in feeble complaint: "Haven't parents ANY rights? Must THEIR lives be centered entirely on their children? After all, children are unformed and immature, and though they are charming and delightful company they are not completely satisfying all the time to a grown-up human being. Haven't parents any rights at all?"

I think they have. . . . And their chief right, it seems to me, is to Get Away from the Children occasionally. To spend just one night, once in a while, away from their homes. Or to have a week-end somewhere. Or to enjoy one whole week, once a year, on a vacation by themselves.

Of course, they'll worry a little while they're away and they'll get on the telephone to ask "How are the children?" But when they've got the anxiety of their mind they'll be "so relieved" and as happy as children are supposed to be. And the children will be happier, too. Parents may grow weary of having their children under foot all the time, but their weariness is nothing to the irritation of youngsters who have the "same old parents" overhead all the time—always about them, watching everything they do, saying "don't" and saying "do" and playing God to all their natural activities and desires.

If parents can only Get Away from Their Children they love them twice as much when they come back and the children love mother and father twice as much when they see them coming up the front steps. Don't tell me I'm wrong. I know this is true. . . . If we tried to pass a law compelling parents and children to be separated one whole week each year it might not pass if parents had to stand right up in public to vote. But with a secret ballot it would win with a huge majority. And if the children voted—

Briand, Beaten In Assembly, Still Holds Center Of Stage

French Statesman, Opposed By Nationalists, Continues Fight For Peace Measures While World Watches His Efforts

Artistic Briand's loss of the presidency of France has not meant loss of worldwide interest in his efforts to defeat extreme nationalism in Europe. American comments give him the center of the stage though opinion of his prospects for the future differ.

"Is it that Briand speaks only for Briand and that France is not in accord with him?" asks the LOUISVILLE COURIER-JOURNAL. "Is it that conciliation is at an end and that Briand is a lone pilgrim of peace and good will? There is reason for such belief," continues that paper. "The sadness of Mr. Briand is not alone due to a personal defeat but to a defeat of the nation. If so, it is the reputation and prestige of France, not that of Briand, that will suffer."

"Briand has been condemned by his opponents as an internationalist," says the SCHENECTADY GAZETTE, "yet it has been far better for the rest of the world, especially neighboring nations, to have an internationalist at the helm of France than a nationalist. With anti-Briand influences at the helm, Europe would have been forced to remain an armed camp, facing a regressive French policy."

"Perhaps his failure does not mean all it seems to mean," suggests the ERIE DISPATCH-HERALD. "Perhaps it does not signify that the French Parliament has repudiated his policies and his position. But that is just the meaning that is being attached to the episode at Versailles. The judgment of the CLEVELAND PLAIN DEALER is that while 'one day are sufficiently enlightened' to create greatly any movement for international brotherhood, there must be prudence and caution; that 'Briand and his supporters probably have no hope of living to see the complete realization of their plans.'"

As to Paul Doumer, chosen President of France, the CHARLESTON (W. Va.) DAILY MAIL remarks out that he "has been in politics for a period of 43 years, has played an inconspicuous part, his name is not connected with anything important in statecraft, and he seems to be one of those neutral characters," but that paper adds: "Do we always select, in our national conventions, the strongest man? Does democracy, having free choice, always elect the strongest? A strong man in public life creates many enemies and gives cause for many antagonisms."

Observing that "the name of Briand will be found on most of the treaties of late years, in which France and other nations have pledged themselves toward peaceful endeavor," the PORTLAND OREGON JOURNAL concedes that, "unfortunately, Briand has not been able to effect these treaties without opposition at home. The DES MOINES TRIBUNE-CAPITOLIAN remarks: "Briand's signal labors for international and intellectual accord have raised anxious men's hopes for the world's political future. It is regrettable as inevitable that these labors made French nationalists raise their axe for him."

"The party opposing him" according to the FORT WORTH STAR-TELEGRAM, "vision a stubbornly recalcitrant France, one that purposes no subtraction from French interests for contribution to internationalism. The present gathering in Geneva of the personnel of the commission organized to deliberate on the subject of a Pan-European Union takes one of its charter members, Article Briand, to be a voice without authority, a personality without a country behind his utterances. There are great news potentialities in that situation. The age-old battle of individuality against partisanship is fought once more. Briand has indicated his purpose of continuing his efforts in behalf of the organization, largely created regardless of the practical repudiation of his recommendations by the French people. There are many instances of record where individuals proved their supremacy over the French vox populi by that which might be described as an eulogical coup d'etat. Can Article Briand break into that particular Hall of Fame? There are many people throughout the world who are frank in saying that he deserves the distinction more pronouncedly than many who have attained it."

"Just now France is on top," states the CHARLESTON (S. C.) EVENING POST. "And the nationalists insist that she must keep on top by sheer strength. That does not mean that the nationalist party in France desires nor is preparing for war. But it does mean that the hope of putting down militarism, the effort to reduce land armaments first and naval afterwards—or the other way—has been severely set back by the defeat of Briand for president and the logical consequence of that, his resignation of the Foreign portfolio and, perhaps, his retirement from political leadership. Mr. Hoover's plea to Europe to reduce its armament is likely to have in France about as hospitable a reception as the more delicately veiled hints of Europeans that the United States should cancel the war debts received at Washington."

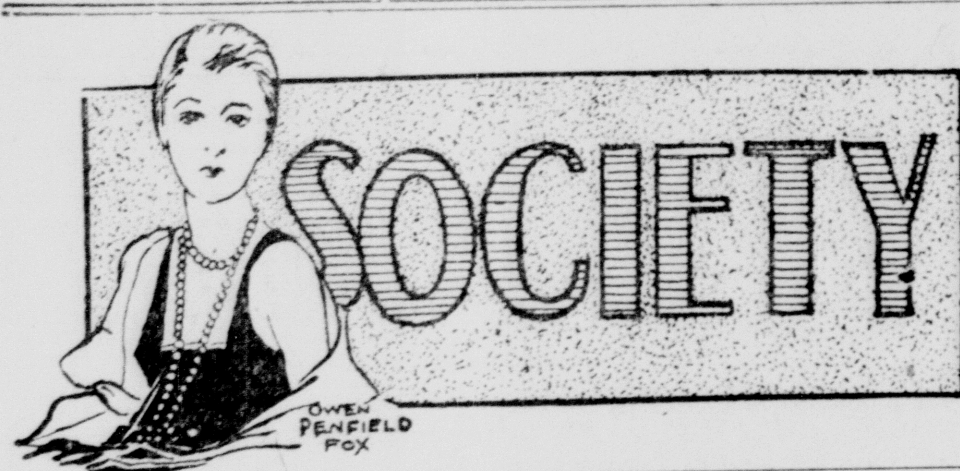

Believing that "Briand would have been the choice of the French public," but pointing out that Parliament elects the President, the ANN ARBOR DAILY NEWS concludes: "Briand deserved the honor he sought. It was coming to him. But his election would have been politically expedient for the politicians. Politics is an opportunist with a stony heart." In Briand's fight before the League of Nations, the OAKLAND TRIBUNE sees "something dramatic and even noble in his attitude, for he stands against the separate agreements, believing them to be a reversion to the methods of old war-breeding days."

The Tribune, however, thinks he "has his back against the wall."

"France reflects, more or less, the attitude of the whole of the continent," in the opinion of the LOUIS

Granting that, for political reasons, the majority of the European nations are irritated by the economic union between Austria and Germany, what are the alternatives? The European states can not denounce such a customs union with a plea for a return to the old economic anarchy, which Brand so roundly condemned not long ago to unanimous applause. An alternative idea of a number of customs alliances, each one directed against the others, is based upon a theory of alliances which has been at the base of European discord for 400 years. It smacks of the old balance of power policy. The only acceptable alternative to the Austrian-German plan is the proposal for a wider customs union."

"Sorrowful Unto Death" "Brass Tacks" On The Sunday School Lesson

The Golden Text

Go ye therefore, and teach all nations, baptizing them in the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost.—Matthew 28:19.

By DR. ALVIN E. BELL

If we would see Jesus in the bitterness of the sorrow He endured for us, it is difficult to say whether we had better go to the place called "Gethsemane" or the place called "Calvary." There are reasons for believing that in some respects the agony of Gethsemane was more severe than the agony of crucifixion.

Certainly, all of Jesus' words in Gethsemane reveal the genuineness and inexpressible bitterness of anguish and horror our Lord saw ahead of Him on the cross. It was in no sense to be a peasant of sorrow or sham battle with sin and death. The very anticipation of it nearly killed Him. Gethsemane almost robbed Calvary of being the place of His death. "My soul is exceeding sorrowful unto death." He was not given to exaggeration, and yet here He confesses that He felt almost crushed to death with the burden of the world's sin. Luke, "the beloved physician," describes it thus: "And being in an agony He prayed more earnestly; and His sweat became as it were great drops of blood falling down upon the ground."

The Agonizing Prayer

Three times He fell upon His face "With strong crying and tears" and prayed, saying: "Father, if Thou be willing, remove this cup from me; nevertheless, not my will but Thine, be done. And there appeared unto Him an angel from heaven, strengthening Him." The author of the Epistle to the Hebrews says

"He was heard in that He feared." Now, what was it Christ feared in His death, and against which He prayed so earnestly? Was it not the horror of being "made sin for us who knew no sin"? Was it not also a godly fear of the effect of the cross, not upon Himself, but rather upon the crucifiers? A fear lest the cross, instead of becoming a means of salvation to the world, should become an insuperable barrier to its salvation, an unpardonable sin and the condemnation of the world? May not the angel that came to strengthen Him have come with assurance from His Father that the cross would not crush the world when it crushed Him? His very first word from the cross may explain what He feared in Gethsemane: "Father, forgive them, for they know not what they do."

"The Travail of His Soul"

This was the "Travail of His Soul" to give us spiritual birth and life. Such amazing sorrow for our sin and godly fear for our salvation should move us to shrink from sin as He did, and claim for ourselves the victory He won over it in Gethsemane and on Calvary, that He may "see of the travail of His soul and be satisfied."

(The International Uniform Lesson for May 31 is Luke 22:39-54, the subject being "Jesus in Gethsemane," and the Golden Text, Luke 22:42, "Father, if Thou be willing, remove this cup from me; nevertheless, not my will, but Thine, be done.")

Now the children follow with us to the grave with pretty flowers, And we try to teach them something of the memory that's ours. Only those who've lived a war-time know its anguish and its pain. And the anxious weeks of waiting and the tears that fall like rain. Only those who've lost a soldier understand Memorial Day. And the bitter cost of freedom which the brave go forth to pay.

MEMORIAL DAY

A little patch of color on a lonely mound of green;
A little flag above him, very new and very clean,
And the Maytime breezes blowing through the grasses soft and sweet,
And the little children wondering why the drums so slowly beat.

They've been told there was a soldier, in the days before they came,
Who marched away to battle when the world was all aflame,
For they've heard us talk about him, and they've often heard us sigh,
But they have no understanding of the reason soldiers die.

Only those who've lived a war-time know its anguish and its pain. And the anxious weeks of waiting and the tears that fall like rain. Only those who've lost a soldier understand Memorial Day. And the bitter cost of freedom which the brave go forth to pay.

Answer to Previous Puzzle

Foster's Weather Forecast

WASHINGTON, May 29.—Storm wave of mild force, expected to cross continent during week centering on 31 is expected to be a warm storm center, bringing average temperatures back to above normal after the sharp drop centering on 28, generally over the continent. This warm wave will be the starting of the best period of crop weather of season, as neither temperatures nor precipitation will be expected to depart very far from normal during the month to follow. As normal is the ideal condition for all crops, the general conditions will soon be expected to indicate bumper crops where permanent damage has not already been done. Later in the season, however, this outlook will be changed materially. Storm wave centering on 31 is expected to be a typical summer storm wave, traveling the northern transcontinental storm path, while the high barometer crosses southern states, causing cool wave with general rains in southern and central latitudes to occur between the low barometer storm wave and the following high barometer.

Cropweather Features Expected During June

June is expected to average about a normal month in both temperatures and precipitation for the continent for the month. That does not mean that each small area will average about normal, but taking North America as a whole. Periods

1 to 15 and 29 and 30 will be expected to average above normal temperatures and below normal precipitation; 16 to 28 expected to average a little below normal temperatures and above normal precipitation. Most precipitation during week centering on 21. Most precipitation in east part of sections 1, 3 and 5, eastern Great Central valleys; more precipitation in southern than in northern part of this area. After June 15 a material increase in precipitation will be expected in western part of sections 1, 3 and 5, western Great Central valleys and western plateau, but this increase is expected to be of a temporary character. Moderately severe storms, expected to center on 21, will cause principal precipitation of month; moderate storms expected to center on 8, 15 and 28; mild storms expected to center on 30. Such storms expected to be transcontinental crossing continent from west to east. By "center on" is meant that storms will be expected to reach 90th meridian on date given; when "week centering on" is used, weather feature forecasted is expected to cross continent during that week and reach 90th meridian on date given, which would be the central date of that week. Low temperatures of month expected near 17, 24 and 27. Cool waves following storm centers of May 31 and June 8 not expected to reach great extremes. No cold waves or killing frosts expected this month excepting in the far north, where they will threaten near 17 and 24. A good cropweather month as an average, but probably a little too wet for the starting of wheat harvest in the far south.

Legion Plans To Have Greatest Memorial Turnout

Commander Wadlinger Is Given Assurance Of Record Turnout Of Veterans

Perry S. Gaston Post, American Legion through the efforts of its officers and members, anticipates having the greatest number of ex-service men of the World War in the parade formation on Memorial Day, that there has been on any Memorial Day since the return of the boys from service overseas and in this country.

Through the efforts of Commander Major Guy J. Wadlinger and his assisting officers and Memorial Day Committee, the interest aroused in the observance of the day is the greatest since the close of the war, more especially as the veterans of the World War are dying at the rate of seventy a day, a fact that is causing the veterans to become more conscious each year of their obligation to the dead, as more and more of their friends pass on.

Comrade John D. Kennedy, parade marshal, and chairman of the Legion Memorial Day Committee is expecting to have an especially large delegation of Legionnaires, along with all former service men of the World War, to report for the parade and exercises on Saturday morning at 8:45 o'clock at the Legion Home.

It is anticipated also that there will be many service men of the World War, who served under the flags of our allies, march back of the Legion Colors, as Perry S. Gaston Post at its last meeting Tuesday night, unanimously approved a resolution inviting these veterans, now residents of this city or vicinity, who served under the colors of England, Ireland, Canada, Poland, Italy, France or any other Allied country, to march with the local Legionnaires and ex-service men behind the Legion Colors.

All Legionnaires and other former service men are requested to report for the parade in uniform. If there is any reason why uniforms are not available, each Legionnaire is expected to at least wear their Legion Cap. All service men will be welcome, however, whether in uniform or wearing a cap or other designation of service in the World War.

IN NEW CASTLE

There have been those individuals, who as athletes have brought fame from time to time, to this community, but there never has been one that brought any greater fame than Carl Forkum, who was one of the first individuals to leave New Castle High School and bring real fame to the city through his athletic activities in a higher institution of learning. Along about 1900 he was the local high school star and played football. Even as a high school player his fame had gone beyond the confines of this city. On leaving the high school, he went to Pennsylvania State College and the fame of State College football team and Carl Forkum were practically one and the same during the period that he was in that college, as he was the outstanding star of the team during the four years that he was in that institution. He has been active in the iron and steel industry since graduation and has been a success in that line as well as in football in his high school and college days. Today his fame as an athlete is forgotten by many but the fact still remains that New Castle High School owes much to him as a pioneer in athletics through his achievements.

INSURE Poultry Health

(A Bad Case of Worms)

The cheapest health insurance for poultry is to keep them free from worms and in good vigor.

Simple Flock Treatment

Begin treating chicks regularly after they are two weeks old with AVI-TONE, a wormer and tonic; a 100 per cent drug preparation which if fed to chicks and turkeys when two weeks of age will prevent worms and keep the flock in condition; which gives them greater resistance against diseases; saves feed, matures the birds faster and makes for you more profit. Give AVI-TONE to growing birds regularly for rapid development and worm control.

Dr. Salsbury's AVI-TONE

Used as a flock treatment for worms in mature birds will not interfere with egg production as most wormers do, but will tone up the system, increase the vigor and appetite and speed up the development of the egg laying organs. Costs only 2 1/2c per bird from chick to laying house.

AVI-TONE is the most economical poultry tonic today because it contains no fillers or inert materials. Once used, always used. A 100% drug preparation gets results.

Franklin Students Present Splendid Operetta Thursday

"Penny Buns And Roses"
Presented To Large Audience In School Auditorium

Last Cast Of Students Take Part In Interesting Performance Last Night

Perhaps it was because of the extraordinary talent of the players, perhaps it was the fine dramatic direction they received, or the clever plot of the story, or the dances and music.

But the credit probably goes to the entire cast and everyone who had anything to do with producing "Penny Buns and Roses" the operetta presented at the Benjamin Franklin junior high school Thursday night.

It was wonderful, the acting superb, the plot amusing, the songs and dances during the evening and the costumes and scenery was delightful, and the large audience was delighted.

There was about 100 in the cast and each did his part in a worthy manner. They were directed by Miss Ruth Lewis. Miss Esther Gibbons and Miss Helen Maloney, of the Franklin faculty. Miss Lewis had charge of the dramatics, Miss Gibbons the vocal music, and Miss Maloney the dances. Each of these instructors are most competent and have taken active parts in planning and directing many of the most outstanding of Franklin programs, and added to their reputations with last night's production.

Miss Gladys Rich, city schools music supervisor, was vocal accompanist during the evening and Miss Tucker was dance accompanist. The school orchestra, led by Miss Eva Coulter, was there and played before and between acts.

The costumes which caused so much comment from those in the audience, were made by Misses Thelma Howell, Arletta Drew, Anne Rice and Alice Grimes, and the stage scenery was in charge of Miss Emilie Salomon and Miss Ingeborg Halgren, with the following student helpers: Helen Stickle, Julia Kish, Betty Aronson, Elizabeth Naderinski, Louise Coris, Marie Ambrose, Olinda Maturo, Louise Sandula, Kathryn Tressler, Matilda Noy and Selma Dahlberg.

And added to the list of helpers are the students who so excellently took care of the make-up work. These students are members of the Make-Up club and know their make-up. They are Rose O'Loughlin, Alice Preston, Helen Kelly, Sue Adams, Genevieve Hogue, Mary Ellen Lalley, Jane Knobloch, Wilbert Wimer, Philip Wimer and Glenn Peebles.

Then the cast. The principals were as follows:

Little Old Man—Bill Greer.
Little Old Wife—Mary Wastlin.
Beautiful Young Wife—Mary Miller.

Baker (afternoon)—Paul Walters.
Baker (evening)—Joe Bonfield.
Gay Gallant—Adam Krezo.

There were seven groups of players in the cast, giving various song and dance numbers and dramatic dialogue. These groups are as follows:

Pierettes—Margaret Aveni, Trenta Bosco, Pauline Warso, Marietta Frazier, Jean Riley and Betty Ubel.
Pierrots—June Young, Ruth Conner, Bernice Forrest, Mildred Carson, Esther Trent, Frances Gorgacz, Bakers Assistants—Frances Doyle, Myrtle Shapo, Miriam Shapiro, Rose O'Loughlin, Ruth Miller, Cecelia Hasulak, Harold Young, John Thompson, Andy Russo, Robert Martikala, William Bowen, Edwin Moon and Orville Aven.
Little Old Men—Ralph Brown, Gilbert Colnot, Thomas Cramer, Billy Lackey, James Bradford, Eugene Kendra, Guy Jay.
Little Old Women—Beile Kyla, Mary Virginia Roberts, Carolyn Maturo, Ruth Patton, Pauline Masters, Josephine Huff, Marion McKenzie, Ruth Hughes.

Handsome Young Men—Dale Grove, Jack Locke, James Cordella, Robert McCann, Lester Grimm, Thomas Evans, Philip Martello, Theodore Christos.
Beautiful Maidens—Marguerita Lewis, Vivian Hogue, Weltha Johnson, Twila Nixon, Dorothy Adams, Lillian Ruhstay, Letty Remley and Olga Komare.
Curtains and lights throughout the performance were operated by Thomas Jones and Robert Jones.

ABE MARTIN On Th' Fountain O' Youth An' Th' Beauty Parlor

IN TH' DISCARD AT 25 IN 1880. AN' A PIPPIN AT 60 IN 1920.

"I shall live! I shall live thru' th' centuries!" cried Bulwar Linton's seeker after eternal youth, comments some newspaper. Then it goes on to say "that all down th' ages human beings have sought th' Fountain o' Youth." But o' course nobuddy's found it. Folks go to French Lick Springs, Cedar Lake, Sulphur Springs, Wawasee, an' Bass Lake, but they all come back lookin' worse'n they did before. Some folks come home from Atlantic City actin' a little younger, but it soon wears off. But science has got some kind of a scheme o' installin' goat glands in th' human body, declarin' that youth lies in th' intestinal processes o' these animals in th' functional activities o' glandular formations in man, although Dr. Mopps doubts it very much. "However," says th' doctor, "somethin' comin' over th' people o' 'day. They were marked down at th' age o' twenty-eight an' soon disappeared from th' market altogether. They jest kind o' gave up an' pined away. In that day folks didn't seem to realize—didn't seem to know anythin' about that beautiful, sweet, mid-season o' life between golden youth an' silvered old age—between th' wild, irresponsible, carefree age an' th' age o' neuritis an' regret. Th' long stretch o' years between twenty-five an' seventy are sensible

County Taxes Can Be Paid Treasurer, Beginning Monday

Taxpayers Can Save Five Per Cent On Taxes During June
And July

County taxes for 1931 may be paid beginning next Monday, according to announcement made this morning by County Treasurer, Adna M. Smiley. All of the duplicates are now in the treasurer's office for both city and county.

During the months of June and July, taxpayers can save five per cent by paying their taxes. During the month of August taxes will have to be paid at their face. The combined county and poor tax this year is nine mills, the same as last year.

The millage is based on the new triennial assessment, which does not vary much from the former triennial assessment. About all that has been done has been to equalize valuations, so far as possible.

Teachers Will Go To Summer School

Mercer County Teachers Notified They Must Have Credit Standard.

MERCER, May 29.—Mercer county school teachers have been notified by the state bureau of education in a general broadcast of letters that they are expected to attend summer school unless they have had four years' educational training in advance of their high school graduation.

This order applies to teachers with permanent certificates as well, says Prof. W. M. Johnson, county superintendent of schools. The plan is to urge teachers to reach higher standards in education which will reflect itself in academic training in public schools. Two hundred Mercer county teachers will attend summer school sessions in the announcement at the office of the county bureau.

A portion of these are teachers working their way toward a permanent certificate from one of provisional issue.

ON COLLEGE BOARD District Attorney Leo McKay will attend a meeting of the board of trustees of Allegheny College, to be held at Meadville June 8. The time is the holding of the annual commencement at the school. The county prosecutor is the junior member of the board, being elected to the position within the last year.

MARRIAGES INCREASE Will the depression militate against the number of marriage licenses that are issued in June, which has coined the term, month of brides?

If any credence can be placed in the marriage license docket of Mercer county there is nothing to fear. To date there are 10 more recorded for 1931 than 1930; the number for the present term being 282, that of 1930 numbering 272.

May of 1931 to date has been productive of 55 applications, of 1930 there were 70. The big year was 1926, when 99 were issued. A five-year average in issue of licenses shows such a slight fluctuation as to be negligible.

Fair Gives Up After 21 Years

North Washington Association To Sell Amusement Grounds

BUTLER, Pa., May 29.—Members of the North Washington Fair Association, which has held races and farm exhibits for 21 years, announced today that the land of the association, consisting of 14 acres, is being advertised for sale.

Until last year the association has been able to pay the expenses of conducting the fair, which at one time drew large crowds because of the quality of the races. A large deficit from the fair held last year has convinced the directors that the usefulness of the fair has passed in the North Washington district.

The association has been receiving $300 yearly from the agricultural department of the state, but this has not been sufficient to prevent a deficit in operating expenses. Directors of the association acting in the proposed sale are H. T. Stewart, P. C. Groom and W. H. Kuhn.

East Liverpool Visitors Present Fine Performance

New Castle P. H. C. Has Exceptionally Interesting Evening

Following a brief business session held by New Castle Circle No. 5, Protected Home Circle, on Wednesday night the doors of the circle chamber were opened to the public when perhaps one of the most delightful entertainments held in some time was enjoyed by a large and appreciative audience—and so, hats off to the famous "Jubilee entertainers," a group of thirty gentlemen from East Liverpool, Ohio, men of rare talent who put over a show that added new laurels to their reputation as real artists. Minstrelsy as a black face act with Clyde Parsons, Donald Stoffel, Earl Singer and Arnold Densmore, kept the audience in roars of laughter with their fresh jokes and the right man in the right place as interludes was our own Dave Parsons, former New Castle boy.

The soloists of the evening were exceptionally good and won the hearty applause they deserved, especially fine were Eddie Stevens' rendition of "I Ain't Got Nobody Much"; "The Dawn of Tomorrow" by Ed Grafton; "Hello Beautiful" by Earl Arnold; "I Am Alone Because I Love You" by Bill Osborne; and "Loud Speakin' Papa" by Clyde Parsons. Paul Langdon as the yodeling cowboy, scored a big hit, while Emmet Bailey, can just whistle a bird out of a tree, Len Celman rendered delightfully "The A Little String Around Your Finger," and the musical saw was made to speak by Bick Weston.

"Old Pals Are the Best Pals," by James Bennett was another fine piece of work followed with Donald Stoffel in "The Foot-Loose." James Stauff of course made a big hit in "The Last One Left on the Corner" and Arnold Densmore was simply too funny for words in Dapper Dan.

Compliments of highest praise were awarded pianist Ralph Mullen, accompanist of the evening who opened the entertainment with one of his wonderful preludes.

The show throughout was classic, mirthful, and will presented, a regret being the absence of one of the finest feature stars of the group, Virgil Cochran who was severely injured in an auto accident on Wednesday afternoon.

Out of town visitors included Deputy R. H. Mitchell and wife and Accountant Mrs. Harmon, Beaver Falls; Mrs. Ira Garwig, Hazel Garwig and Eva May Duncan, Ellwood City.

On next Wednesday night the circle will hold one of their popular dances for members and their friends and on Wednesday evening June 10 the regular session will be held for the nomination of officers.

Lillie B. Jones, secretary.

Civil War Vet Has Battle Relics

Grove City Veteran Displays Relics Of Days Of Civil War

GROVE CITY, May 29.—On display here are several interesting relics of the Civil War days the property of Rev. J. P. Barber, 96, himself a veteran of that war. Barber is one of three surviving veterans of the Marion Craig Post G. A. R. of Grove City.

A copy of the New York Times of April 15, 1865 details under the caption, "Awful Event" a story of the shooting of President Lincoln. Rules of the papers are turned up. It is interesting to note in passing that the style of head writing on the paper has remained unchanged since that date. A copy of the "Daily Richmond Whig" of May 19, 1865 is also interesting, not only from its text but also due to it being an exchange of Barber with a Confederate picket.

A sword of a Confederate soldier, a piece of shell from the battle of Gettysburg and a copy of the Emancipation Proclamation of President Lincoln comprise the other articles. Barber is the member of a well known Western Pennsylvania family.

College girls will handle the events and act as judges.

The big gas well on the John Smith farm in Liberty township near here has been tugged and capped owners announce today. The well measured an open flow of gas of 400,000 cubic feet at the well mouth when it came in. For 24 hours this volume of gas escaped until workmen could place casing and cap it. The Union Heat and Light has purchased it and are now laying a line.

The well is owned by six Waynesburg operators. C. R. Sellers of the

THE PARENT PROBLEM

Let Teacher Manage Tot At School

Don't Punish Children At Home For School Faults

By GARRY C. MYERS, PH. D.
Head Division Parental Education
Cleveland College, Western Reserve University.

Many letters come to me concerning behavior problems of the child at school. Many parents seem to think they must punish their children for all their alleged bad conduct at school as well as for all misdeeds at home. It is the teacher's job to manage the child in school. We get nowhere by punishing children at home for their bad conduct at school or elsewhere in our absence. Our task is to guide our child at home in such a way that he will act properly away from home. The moment we attempt to check upon his conduct away from us our efforts become ineffectual.

We might, of course, by means of fear, correct some anti-social conduct of our child at school; but doing so, we are almost sure to cultivate more bad behavior both at home and at school. To be sure, we want our children and their teacher to know that we expect our children to adjust themselves to the rules and regulations of the school, and that within reason, we approve the school's discipline. Furthermore, if your child or mine were to become such a nuisance at school as to be unmanageable under the usual treatment, if I were a teacher, I would use corporal punishment in school; in which event there would be almost none.

Now, if your child or mine became such a problem; then we had fallen down at home. If our children are reasonably well guided at home, they don't become social nuisances at school. We owe it to our children first to train them early in restraint in respect for others' rights and for authority in whomsoever authority is vested. No virtue in my child's obeying me because I am his parent. Unless obedience carries beyond me it proves futile.

I wish more parents were to establish in their children very early habits of obedience to authority so that teachers would not have to waste their time on discipline.

If the child is unmanageable at school he almost surely had been so at home. Of course, there is an occasional bad teacher who causes children to be incorrigible at school. But they are few and their number is fast decreasing. A pretty good rule for parents whose teachers complain about their children's bad conduct at school is to work for more intelligent guidance of the child at home.

The surprising thing is that so very many children whose parents can't manage them at all at home are considered perfect citizens at school. Parents who discovered such discrepancy know at once that the problem is their own and not the child's.

Then there are some parents who ask the teacher to punish the child at school for some bad behavior at home. How absurd! No wise teacher will assume such responsibility for the child's conduct to and from school. Her responsibility ends and begins with the school limits.

Our problem as parents is to guide the child so well while in our presence that his good behavior will carry on from habit in our absence. It can be done.

Chief Horner Asks Motorists To Help Police

Asked To Avoid Getting In The Way On Memorial Day Procession

Chief of Police C. C. Horner today asked the co-operation of the motorists in avoiding any possible action that would interfere in any way with the Memorial Day activities on Saturday morning.

The chief asks that motorists avoid parking in the vicinity of the Legion Home on Saturday morning, due to the fact that will be the place of forming the Memorial Day parade.

He also asks that they avoid parking on the west side of North Jefferson street between Washington street and Sycamore Way during the morning, as that place has been reserved for the Civil War Veterans, who will review the parade on its return from Greenwood cemetery.

His third request of the motorists is to avoid parking on the line of march of the parade through Greenwood cemetery on Memorial Day morning. This would mean the main drive from the entrance of the cemetery to the fork of the roads, the drive on the driveway to the left up to the soldiers plot and the drive way to the right of the main driveway on which the parade will return on leaving the cemetery.

The latter request is especially in the interest of the old soldiers who are taken in busses, which cannot pass parked cars on the driveways. The chief also requests motorists to refrain from parking in the vicinity of the Capitol theatre, prior to and during the services held there.

Banishment Of Malaria Is Triumph

Dr. Clendening Describes Battle To Conquer

III

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

Malaria once was a common summer and autumn disease in the United States. Its distribution extended as far north as the New England states and in the Middle Western states, there it is now almost unknown, was a serious detriment to their settlement by the early pioneers. In such great American medical classics as Daniel Drake's book on the "Principal Diseases of the Interior Valley of North America," and Sappington on "Fever," both published before 1850, the prevalence of malaria is everywhere evident, and the general practitioner carried more quinine and calomel in his saddlebags than anything else. Nowadays malaria is largely restricted to the Gulf states and the southern states, and even there it is on the decline, so that a prominent authority says that if this continues there will be little malaria in the United States by 1935 or 1940.

It is strange for us to hear then that malaria is the world-wide "Captain of the men of death," as John Bunyan called tuberculosis and Osler called pneumonia. In tropical countries its ravages are still frightful, and in certain tropical islands the entire human population has been destroyed.

A fruit company of Boston must feel that its prevention is of great commercial value to its industry, for it has issued an interesting little booklet on the subject, well illustrated and describing clearly the fascinating story of the life history of the malarial parasite.

The whole history of the conquest of malaria is indeed fraught with romantic interest. It can be found told with superb skill in one of the most interesting books of our day, "Microbe Hunters," by Paul de Kruif. I particularly recommend the chapter which tells how the Italian physician Grassi proved that the mosquito conveys the germs from one individual to another.

The disappearance of malaria is a triumph for accurately planned preventive medicine. It could not have been accomplished until it was proved that malaria was conveyed by mosquitoes. To prevent being bitten by mosquitoes is to prevent having malaria. Of course, as is now well known, only certain kinds of mosquitoes carry the malarial germ—and only the female, at that. The female anophelines mosquito feeds usually between sunrise and sunset. Humans in malarial countries should be certain to be inside screened houses during these hours and sleep under mosquito bars.

Since mosquitoes breed and develop in water, any collection of open water that remains for a week is a potential breeding place for them. In malarial districts, then, all collections of rubbish, old bottles or tin cans should be destroyed or buried. The surface of pools should have a film of crude oil spread over their surfaces. This destroys the mosquito in its early stages and naturally keeps her from spreading the disease.

QUESTIONS FROM READERS

L. M. H.: "What diet do you suggest for mucous colitis?"

Answer: No single diet can be prescribed for mucous colitis as individual cases vary. During the state of activity of symptoms a low residue diet is usually helpful, to be found in a pamphlet on "Indigestion and Constipation."

EDITOR'S NOTE

Field Club Golf Program Announced For Memorial Day

Valuable Prizes Will Be Awarded To The Winners In The Various Events

Announcement was made today of a program of various golf events at the New Castle Field club on Memorial Day, which will prove of interest to all the followers of the sport.

There will be special events both morning and afternoon and there will be league prizes awarded the winners in several of the events.

In the morning there will be a best ball half the combined handicaps event in which the rules call for not more than eight strokes difference in the handicaps of the golfers playing as partners. There will also be a three-quarter handicap golf medal play sweepstake event.

In these events there will be league prizes for the first and second position players, also prizes for the low net and gross scores and a prize for the player making the least number of putts on the greens in the morning round.

The afternoon events include a mixed foursome and a full handicap gold medal play sweepstake. In the foursome, the best drive off the tee will be selected and play made with that ball. There will be league prizes for the low net and the low net gross scores in the mixed foursome.

Indications are that there will not only be a large number of participants in the various events. In addition there will be the usual other attractions throughout the day.

Wonderful Support

The report of Dr. W. W. Bissell, medical director of the Jameson Memorial hospital, is as follows: "During the last 126 days we have distributed 18,881 gallons of the heaviest, richest, most wholesome soup that quantity cooking would permit us to make. This quantity has been an abundance for the supply of 151,048 meals.

The report, signed by Mayor Gillespie, adds:

"We had wonderful co-operation from the citizens and clubs of New Castle, and I wish to thank every one of the committee and everyone who had any part. And I especially wish to thank Dr. W. W. Bissell for his untiring energy in supplying much needed soup. Also the Carnegie Steel Company for the use of their auditorium, and to those who helped so liberally with their time in helping to investigate worthy cases and distribute the foods in the auditorium. It is very likely that this committee or one like it will have to function again this winter. We hope not, but should it be necessary we will ask for your hearty co-operation as in the past. We believe that an immense amount of good was accomplished as these reports will show."

Parents At Event
The Parents' Night meeting was held at the Arthur McGill school, May 25. Ten scouts were present with Scoutmaster Crosby, Deputy Commissioners Davis and Lutz and twenty parents. The meeting was to show the parents just what the scouts do usually at the meetings.

During the opening exercise, Howell Williams took charge. James Cravenstreter led in the Jay and Bob Cole led in the Lord's Prayer. After patrol meetings the business meeting was held. During the business meeting the first aid blank was to be filled out and a motion was passed to thank Mr. Tewell for his fine co-operation in opening the building for us. Mr. Davis spoke and reminded the troop about Memorial Day's good turn. The meeting was then closed.

The first aid team gave a demonstration and the two patrols gave a stunt. The Raven Patrol gave a demonstration of the camp truck and the Blake Snake Patrol gave "the operation". The meeting was then closed after which refreshments were served.

New Standards To Be Discussed At Convention

County Sabbath School Workers To Discuss New Standards Of Christian Education

One of the matters of interest to Sabbath School workers that will be brought out in one of the Departmental Conferences of the 93rd Convention of the Lawrence County Sabbath School Association which is to be held at the Cathedral, morning, afternoon and evening sessions, Thursday, June 11th, will be the new standards in Christian Education. This conference will follow the afternoon session.

Not long ago a great minister wrote a stirring hymn—"We would see Jesus." When it was first sung by his people, they felt the surge of its power. Since that time his people have reared a glorious Gothic structure, and in that time have nourished the challenging spirit of seeing Jesus. It has been a goal luring on constantly.

Just so are the new Christian Education Standards which are a goal of effort. These standards are capable of many interpretations, so as to meet all at every point. They create a desire for improvement. At the present time there are two standards—Standard A—an instrument for the more advanced schools; Standard B—an instrument for the average school. There are also standards for the Beginners, Primary and Junior Departments, Standard for Adult Religious Education in the church and standard for Young People's Division, covering the Intermediate, Senior and Young People's Department or combinations thereof. This conference will be in charge of Walter E. Myers, general secretary and administrative superintendent of the Pennsylvania State Sabbath School Association assisted by Rev. R. M. Haverfield, pastor of the Westfield Presbyterian church and Christian Education Superintendent of the Lawrence County Sabbath School Association.

These New Christian Education Standards have been presented to a group of Sabbath school workers of Lawrence county at the annual mid-year efficiency conference, and later in a couple of conferences conducted by Rev. Haverfield upon the request of some districts. At the present time some of the schools in the county are using Standard B, and one Sabbath School using Standard A. Those attending the county convention this year will have an opportunity of becoming better acquainted with the new standards which have supplanted the ten point standard used for many years, and which, according to those who have made a study of the new standards, are much superior.

By Rev. Roy L. Smith, D. D.

GOD NEVER

Asks the impossible of any man. Imposes burden without promising strength. Implants an instinct without providing a purpose. Assigns us a duty without giving us time in which to discharge it. Creates any man's good character by a miracle. Works to save any man work that builds character. Deserts the man who keeps on trying.

NO MAN EVER THINKS

Any duty is small if he himself is great. Sin is unimportant who has ever battled against it. Justice is a little thing if he lacks it. Lightly of troubles that are his own. Clearly when he is angry. Flippantly about God when he is in trouble. "Money is everything" when a loved one lies dying.

(Special To The News)

Parent's Night At Aiken School

Outdoor Program Is Presented As Feature Of Event

An outdoor program presented on the grounds of the institution marked the feature of the Parent's Night at the Aiken school on Thursday night. The event was well attended.

The different rooms were beautifully decorated with different designs. The first graders chose for their decoration a miniature park, representing Cascade Park and a design illustrating the story of the Three Bears.

In the Nature Study room, numerous plants adorned this room. The plants were raised from small slips by the students of the school at the start of the school year last fall. A red begonia plant raised by Lucy Pitzitola of the sixth grade has been judged the best plant of the year. Honorable mention goes to Edward Yearagoe.

The windows of the different rooms were cleverly decorated. The program follows:

HIGHLIGHTS OF HISTORY

By J. Carroll Mansfield

The Texans—11. The Siege Of The Alamo

ON FEBRUARY 25, 1836, COLONEL TRAVIS, THE HEROIC COMMANDER OF THE LITTLE TEXAN FORCE HOLDING THE ALAMO, DISPATCHED AN APPEAL FOR HELP, WHICH READ IN PART AS FOLLOWS:

"I AM BESIEGED BY A THOUSAND OR MORE MEXICANS UNDER SANTA ANNA. I HAVE SUSTAINED A CONTINUAL BOMBARDMENT AND CANNONADE FOR 24 HOURS AND HAVE NOT LOST A MAN. THE ENEMY HAS DEMANDS A SURRENDER AT DISCRETION, OTHERWISE THE GARRISON ARE TO BE PUT TO THE SWORD IF THE FORT IS TAKEN. . . . I SHALL NEVER SURRENDER OR RETREAT. . . . COME TO OUR AID WITH ALL DISPATCH! . . . IF THIS CALL IS NEGLECTED, I AM DETERMINED TO SUSTAIN MYSELF AS LONG AS POSSIBLE AND DIE LIKE A SOLDIER. . . . VICTORY OR DEATH!"

(Copyright, 1931, by J. Carroll Mansfield)

THREE DAYS LATER, 32 MEN, SURVIVORS OF A BODY OF TEXANS THAT HAD BEEN CUT TO PIECES BY THE MEXICANS NEAR SAN ANTONIO, SLIPPED THROUGH SANTA ANNA'S LINES AND JOINED TRAVIS IN THE ALAMO. NO OTHER HELP CAME.

FOR MORE THAN A WEEK THE TERRIBLE SIEGE WENT ON; THE PLUCKY DEFENDERS CAREFULLY CONSERVING THEIR MEAGER SUPPLY OF FOOD AND TRYING NOT TO WASTE A SHOT.

MEANWHILE SANTA ANNA CONTINUED TO RECEIVE REINFORCEMENTS UNTIL THE BESIEGING ARMY NUMBERED MORE THAN 4,000 MEN. BY MARCH 5 THE MEXICAN GUNS HAD BLOWN IN THE GATES OF THE OLD MISSION AND BATTERED BREACHES IN THE WALLS.

Merle McIntosh Returns To City

Made Splendid Showing In Football At Duke University

Merle J. McIntosh, son of Mr. and Mrs. John McIntosh, 102 East Wallace avenue, returned home last evening from Durham, North Carolina, where he has been attending Duke University the past year. McIntosh was a member of the local high school team prior to going to Duke and had an enviable record here as a gridiron player. At Duke University, he continued to show excellent qualities as a football player and made the varsity team without difficulty in spite of the fact that Duke University had plenty of material from which to select a team.

Auto Fans Trek To Hoosier Capital For Annual Orgy Of Speed Thrills

By WILLIAM RITT
Central Press Sports Editor
SPEEDWAY, INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., May 29—Tomorrow morning some 170,000 of us, mostly Hoosiers, but many thousands from faraway states will enjoy their greatest thrill of the year—the running of the annual 500 mile auto race. Least lucrative of all of Sport's many department, auto racing holds its followers and participants with the greatest tenacity. It's like hopping a fast, through freight for a joy ride. Once you're on you can't get off. An auto race fan will tear up his own car, defy the constables, risk a brief term in the bailwick and some embarrassing moment before a heartless j. p. to get to the track on time. Once the race has begun the fan loses all sense of time or tide. With glassy eyes he drinks in the fearful uproar, the flashing spectacle of color as the gaily-hued cars rocket past his post. He is completely entranced by it all, for the speedway is the grand opera of sport. Auto races, even this one, the best known most highly prized of all holds little appeal for the uninitiate. But a fellow acquire a hankering for the tin horse gallops and he's done. You'll find him every race day as close to the tire-lashed bricks as the gendarmes will permit him, muttering about superchargers, two-cycle motors and other alien terms.

That goes for the drivers, too. Once a race driver always one, unless he turns car owner in which event he is even more a bug on the same. Years after they've left the tracks they come back. Starter of tomorrow's race in Barney Oldfield, a star in the great old days of the high-wheeled chariots. And an entrant is Barney's old rival, Ralph De Palma, who was racing on the big tracks when the youngsters in tomorrow's grind were getting most of their mileage in rocking cribs. How do they get that way? Don't ask me! What? Say, I'm here because I have to work. Just a job. By the way, remember the ride De Palo gave us in '25? Yeah, some race! And Tommy Milton in 1922 and—

Elders Defeat Dad's Place Nine

Losers Almost Win By Heavy Scoring In Second Inning Of Contest

Elder A. C. defeated the Dad's Place team Wednesday evening at Elder Field in a free scoring contest by the score of 13-9. The Dad's Place nine almost sewed up the contest in the second inning, when its members scored eight runs, which gave it a lead of three runs over the Elders at the time. The Elders, however, came back strong and scored sufficient runs in the remaining innings to win by a three run margin. The Elders batted the ball freely throughout the contest.

Rally In Stock Market Halted In Second Hour

(International News Service)
NEW YORK, May 29.—The rally in the general list which started the first hour was halted in the second period by heavy selling of the Railroad shares. The reaction in the Ralls carried a number of the well-known shares to new low levels for the year. New York Central again leading the downward procession with a 2½-point drop to 79½. Rock Island fell off about 3 points to 25½. Chesapeake and Ohio reached a new low at 32½, down a point and Union Pacific sold off about 3 points at 149½.

Due to the exit of a large number of traders over an extended weekend, Wall Street predicted a quiet and steady market. United States Steel led a forward move in the Industrials and moved ahead 2½ points to 93½. Westinghouse, General Electric, General Motors and other favorites fell in line and the prospects were encouraging for a good-sized pre-holiday short covering session. The Utility stocks refused to slump off with the Ralls and Specialties, prices in this section of the market being slightly higher near the noon period.

Borden, Autolite and other Specialties were the outstanding weak spots. Borden added 3 points to yesterday's 3-point decline and sold at 52½. Electric Autolite tumbled an additional 4 points to 36. New losses of a point or more were recorded for National Dairy Products, Corn Products, J. I. Case, General Motors and other active stocks.

A $57,000,000 decrease in brokers' loans was without special effect on the market. Commodity markets were generally steady, with Cotton up 75 cents a bale and grain prices fractionally higher. Call money was unchanged at 1½ per cent.

Swarm Of Bees Leads Syling Merry Chase

Prof. John C. Syling, county superintendent of schools, proved to be a large group of onlookers Thursday noon, that he knows considerably more than just the education of children.

When a big swarm of bees alighted in the rear of the Runkle electric store on North Mill street, Prof. Syling captured the swarm and took it away to his home on Franklin avenue.

It is believed that the swarm was part of a larger colony that divided, the bees following a younger queen. The task of capturing the young leader of the swarm proved a difficult one, as she crawled into a crack between two concrete blocks in the wall of the building in the rear of the store and had to be smoked out.

There were about two gallons of bees in the swarm, and the task of having them was accomplished without anyone being stung.

White Plans To Stop Harmony Freight Line Operating In City

Council today indicated in no uncertain manner that City Solicitor Robert White will have the complete co-operation of solons in the city's attempt to keep the Harmony Short Line Motor Transportation company from operating "illegally" in the city of New Castle.

As soon as White had told council of alleged abuse of David McCahill, during the rehearsing of the petition for a right to operate here at Pittsburgh yesterday the councilmen expressed themselves freely.

Councilman Genkinger presented a motion which was adopted and which in effect instructed Solicitor Robert White to ask the Lawrence county court for an immediate injunction to stop the company from operating here.

The solicitor will probably present the request for an injunction to enjoin the company, John Benard & Sons, and any other persons from hauling freight within the city limits.

According to White he appeared for the city against the company in a public service commission rehearing yesterday. The company had been refused permission once but asked a rehearing and was given a temporary grant.

He told council that during the session Mr. McCahill "abused him" and had witnesses to show that the service was necessary here. White insisted that he tell the names of the New Castle people who said it was necessary.

Commissioner Charles H. Young finally ruled that McCahill would have to tell the names and White added: "I will call witnesses at the next hearing to show it is not necessary."

"They are operating here now. As soon as the P. B. H. & N. C. line quit they let a contract with a Pittsburgh firm and the freight is being hauled over our streets. It is being hauled illegally," White reported.

"I believe we can stop them. The only thing they have is a temporary order from the commission and there is no authority for this in the act of assembly," he declared.

Councilman Genkinger presented a motion instructing White to enter court and ask for and immediate injunction. The motion was seconded by Councilman Treser and met with Burns and Mayor Gillespie's favor. Mr. Reeves was not present at the session.

The Decision

The court held for the manufacturer.

The judges reasoned thus: Any contract calling for the sale of articles not then in existence but which above to be manufactured especially for the purchaser or upon his special order, do not fall within the class that must be in writing to be valid. The iron work in this case was a special order and a special design and one not on the general market. That order need not, then, be in writing to be binding.

Swiss Scientists Tell Of Experiences In Air While Ten Miles High

Professors Piccard And Kipfer, Relate How It Felt To Be Up 51,000 Feet

Gathered Data That Will Be Very Valuable To Scientists For Years To Come

By WALTER DIETZEL
International News Service Staff Correspondent

BERLIN, May 29.—Back to solid earth after a journey of exploration into a strange hitherto unknown world ten miles above the level of the sea, Professor Auguste Piccard, diminutive, wiry Swiss scientist told with enthusiasm today of a voyage paralleling the imaginative fantasies of Jules Verne.

He unfolded the story of his epic flight in a hermetically sealed aluminum ball slung from a gas balloon to the Telegraf-Union correspondent at Obergurgl, in the Austrian Tyrol, the first outpost of this mundane world to welcome him after his expedition into the skies.

New World's Recorded
Picked up by a search party after he and his assistant, Charles Kipfer, had started out on foot to reach the town following a safe descent on the Gurgl Ferner Glacier in the Oetz-Htal range of the Austrian Alps, Professor Piccard stated definitely he had penetrated the stratosphere 51,000 feet above the level of the sea.

"I have beaten the world's altitude record by 4,000 meters," the Professor said, and I am happy to say we succeeded in reaching the stratosphere.

"It was a glorious flight. The balloon was under control every moment, and it was only exhaustion of the oxygen supply in our aluminum gondola that forced us to descend before the plains of upper Italy, where I had planned the flight to end.

"We obtained plenty of material which I believe to be of the highest scientific value.

Very Well Pleased
"I am highly satisfied with the scientific results of the expedition. All our instruments functioned perfectly, and the barograph recorded an altitude of 16,000 meters (51,000 feet), placing the balloon definitely outside the earth's atmosphere and in the stratospheric area I have tried so long to reach.

"We had ideal weather for observations. The gondola proved absolutely airtight and the oxygen and atmospheric pressure devices worked without a flaw. This faultless performance of our mechanical contrivances enabled us to make detailed scientific observations of that far-off layer of space where the rules governing the earth's atmospheric conditions cease to exist."

Professor Piccard's trip was made primarily for the purpose of studying the origin of cosmic rays. The discovery of the American Professor Millikan, as well as observing atmospheric and electric phenomena at that great height.

Land On Glacier
The two explorers chose the smooth surface of the glacier as the likeliest place for a safe landing and brought the great balloon down at 10 o'clock last night. They planned to proceed immediately to Obergurgl, but found the journey too hazardous at night. They returned to their warm gondola, spent the night there and started the trek early this morning.

"We could not land in the daytime," Professor Piccard said. "Because the balloon had too much buoyancy and it was necessary to wait until night fell.

"The landing was smooth and even, and the gondola was only slightly damaged."

Are Quite Hungry
The two air explorers were met by a searching party consisting of Franz Faulkner, the village schoolmaster of Obergurgl and two other villagers. Piccard and Kipfer were somewhat tired and exceedingly hungry and they fell with relish upon the store of bread, bacon and tea which the searchers carried.

Piccard's first thought was of his wife. He asked Faulkner to go ahead and cable Mme. Piccard at Brussels as speedily as possible.

When the professor himself reached Obergurgl he put in a long distance call to his wife. He told her he needed a rest and planned to stay in the Tyrol for a time to recover his stranded balloon and check up his scientific instruments.

Wife Is Relieved
Brussels, May 29.—Mme. Auguste Piccard and her four children were greatly relieved Thursday when informed that Prof. Piccard and his companion, Charles Kipfer, had landed their stratosphere balloon safely in the Austrian Tyrol.

"I am overjoyed with the news, although I never doubted for a minute that my husband would succeed," Mme. Piccard told International News Service when the news was relayed to her.

Mme. Piccard revealed that she had received a letter from her husband today, written just five minutes before Prof. Piccard entered the aluminum gondola for his history-making ascension.

"I am quite confident of success. Don't worry," the letter said.

Hard Times For Busy Burglar

Successful Second-Story Man Gets No Consideration At All At Home; Worse, A Guy Breaks In And Steals His Wife

BY JOHN P. MEDBURY

For years I have been a successful burglar in a small town and my "jimmy" gives me entrance to some of the best homes in the city. Things are a little tough right now though and it looks like I'll have to go out and earn an honest living until something better turns up.

I was speaking to a highwayman friend of mine this morning and he says business is so slow that the thugs are using second hand black-jacks to cut down their overhead. The high cost of burglar's tools is terrible. Gas pipes have been raised 75 cents an inch and sand bags have gone up $1.25 a pound.

Hard times are hitting every branch of the business. I understand most of the beggars now have to give credit and that thugs are holding up pedestrians on the deferred payment plan.

A Great Plan!
I'm not trying to tell the authorities how to rid the city of crooks, but Scotland has had practically no crime since they began charging for seats in the patrol wagon.

I wouldn't mind all this depression if I weren't having matrimonial troubles. I am not signing this article, for reasons which are obvious; however, I'd like to say that I am one of the best known second story men in America. My name is a household word in every jail in the country.

In spite of this, I get no consideration at all around the house. Take last night, for instance. I worked until 2 a. m. cracking a safe at the bank and then when I got home my wife made me go out in the kitchen and open a can of sardines.

I can't understand Mabel. She's one of the best counterfeiter in the United States, but she's letting religion interfere with her business; she won't make any spurious bills on Sunday.

Still Worse!
Not only that, but she insists upon putting her first husband's picture on currency because she thinks he's better looking than George Washington or Benjamin Franklin.

While I never like to be deceitful, I have had my wife followed for the last couple of months and was surprised to find that she is very much in love with a good-for-nothing porch climber.

I'll admit that he's fairly successful in his business, but it's nothing but luck; he got in on the ground floor.

This man is trying to get her to go to Chicago with him and open an artillery store on the south side. She has very fancy ideas and wants to call it "Ye Olde-Fashioned Machine Gun Shoppe."

Wouldn't This Make Y' Sick?
This might draw a certain class of people, but the average crook isn't going to buy a bomb just because it's all dolled up in baby ribbon.

In the first place, he hasn't had any experience with bombs and other infernal machines; he'd probably be blown to pieces the first day and become a man about town.

Human nature is a funny thing: Here I am out all night minding my own business robbing homes, and this guy breaks into my house while I'm gone and steals my wife.

I could also let sentiment interfere with my work if I wanted to, because my burglary trips take me into many a lovely boudoir, but I have too much self-respect to trifles.
